Andy Hunter, Fade

When you walk out of my light
The color fades, the color fades
When you loose your way
And walk alone, the color fades
And runs like tears down my face
I can give you life, I can give you hope
I can give your heart the love it's looking for
Give you feeling, I can bring you joy
I can make you who you are, who you are

When you walk a rugged road your heart is heavy
Darker than the evening sky
When the path is sinking sand
I am reaching out to pull you through to higher land
The color fades when you walk out of my light
The color fades when you choose to walk alone
The color fades when your path is sinking sand