Acceptance, Black And White

Another day in my life, another day,
I'm insecure, how I'm portrayed in this world
Maybe it's my skin, I know that it's not my mind, that's brought on this social attack

And now I know, what you see isn't what's inside of me
And now I know, what you think isn't based upon my mind

So analyze your hate, find out where it is based, maybe you will see it's not me
The world has spit you out and you don't have a reason why
See we're not that different after all

And now I know, what you see isn't what's inside of me
And now I know, what you think isn't based upon my mind

Give it time, give it time
You will see
What hatred's done to you and me
Give it time, give it time
And you will see
We're not that different after all