Seal, My Vision

I feel like the sun
I feel like the rain
I feel I can justify reason for living again
'Cause what I've been dreaming I know that's its real
I know there's just no changing the way I feel

You're into my head, I'm out of my mind
I feel I can justify reason for being alive
And I have a secret I think you should know
I feel like I just can't keep it
It's deep within me and I feel like I'm loosing control

Can you see my vision
Of a red hot summer in white
When love was the feeling
With no indecision
We were turning that key inside
To get in the moment

You're living a dream I see you today I feel like all my fears are fading away
Been waiting so long for something new I feel like constant craving for being with you

And I have a secret I think you should know
I feel like I just can't keep it
It's deep within me and I know that I'm loosing control

Can you see my vision
Of a red hot summer in white
When love was the feeling
With no indecision
We were turning that key inside
To get in the moment

Can you see my vision
Of a red hot summer in white
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling

I have a secret I think you should know
I feel like I just can't keep in this deep within me
And this deep within me
And this deep within me
And this deep within me
And this deep within me
And this deep within me
And this deep within me
And I feel like I'm loosing control

Can you see my vision
Of a red hot summer in white
When love was the feeling
With no indecision
We were turning that key inside
To get in the moment

Can you see my vision
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling
When love was the feeling.
