Color Me Badd, I Remember

I remember when i was a young boy nothing really ever mattered to me I would take each day as it came my way you know children live for the moment

I remember the first girl i kissed I remember when grandma insisted i came inside when she'd say come in for the night you know tomorrow will be another day do you remember when youth used to be a friend do you remember when comfort was in never understanding comfort was in never understanding do you know what i mean?

do you remember the way that it used to be? full of innocence, so alive, life was carefree it was so good then, hangin' out with your best friend you float wherever you wanted to do you remember your first true love? you you ever wonder if she ever thinks of the times when you used to walk home from school and say tomorrow will be another day chorus come along to the place we once lived touch the things that made us happy find the child that lives within come along

you know it's alright to go back there touch the things that made us happy look for the days that were so fair
come along
and you know that it goes without sayin' there's a child deep inside always playin'
