Amy Lee, Epiphany (feat. Aaron Lewis/Staind)

Your words to me just a whisper
Your faces so unclear
I try to be attention
Your words just disappear
`Cause it`s always raining in my head
Forget all the things I should have said
So I speak to you in riddles `cause
My words get in my way
I smoke the whole thing to my head and feel it
Wash away `Cause I cant take anymore
Of this,I want to come apart, or dig myself a little hole inside your precious heart
Cause its always raining in my head
Forget all the things I should have said
I am nothing more than a little boy inside
That cries out for attention, get I always try to hide `Cause I talk to you like children,
So I dont know how I feel
But Ill know Ill do the right thing
If the right thing is revealed
`Cause its always raining in my head
Forget all the things I should have said