

100th And May, Who I Am

You said you would dance around
If there was sound
You said you would paint my heart
Back into place again
I said you were everything
Anyone could ever dream
You said I was kindly blind
No one wants me
One look in your eyes and I was blinded
One touch of your hands and I was moved
One scent of the fragrance that surrounded you
And the truth of it all is that you saved me
You asked me why tonight?
Why someone like me?
Ill tell you the same thing
I said to you that night
Its because for once in my life
I did something right
It felt like we stood there for hours
Just starin into the sky
But the true display was right beside
When I saw the work of God in your eyes
O yea
I saw that work of God in your eyes
And I was so astounded
Cause you didnt even know
The air was filled with laughter, with love
And your eyes
One look in your eyes and I was blinded
One touch of your hands and I was moved
One scent of the fragrance that surrounded you
And the truth of it all is that you loved me
