Happy Head, Spacetown (4:53)

(David Barratt/Bill Clift/Carl L. Marsh) anybody ever had a dream wouldn't wake up and lose it over me anybody ever stole a scene wouldn't need to if the could only be strangely serene facing the shakedown nobody ever ran the race and came out the same as they went in nobody in a sacred place need leave it if they could only bring some sense of grace for time to lay down hold this terrifying love a charm against the cold do this and think of me and let the world unfold spaced out in spacetown i know you've been shaping up for the shakedown so let me in we live and learn or crash and burn this is spacetown we're living in spacetown everybody in the neighbourhood wouldn't move on if they could only see everybody for the common good shout something apart from look at me just watch the screen when the mirror breaks down you with all that you could own are trying to be true and wait so patiently for a bolt from out the blue show me something i can use a stone that i can throw or shall i turn away and fall into the flow
