Kendall Payne, Happy

I can't sleep its Sunday morning
I get no peace when your away
I thought the stars were finally for us
I read 'em wrong they're brewing hurricanes
Take these arms we call our home
And feel just what is true
The sky aint moving me away its the sky thats moving you
I can't breath it's all too sudden
You made your move and by surprise
I've been caught again in danger
Divorce myself or be your bride
Take these words of right and wrong
And tell me how they fit?
When I am am wrong for loving me
And you're right I just can't quit
I wanna be free to be happy again
I wanna be told that you love who I am
And if it's a spark that you're missing
Well maybe you should try and hold my hand
I wanna be happy again
I can't choose between now and never
Our baby boy he's almost five
And he needs both his momma and daddy
And I won't make him choose a side
Take these roads we travel along
And tell me where they lead?
You sold me heaven but you gave me hell
And with every step I bleed
I wanna be free to be happy again
I wanna be told that you love who I am
And if it's a spark that you're missing
Well maybe you should try and hold my hand
I wanna be happy again
I wanna be free to be happy again
I wanna be told that you love who I am
And if it's a spark that you're missing
Well maybe you should try and hold my hand
I wanna be happy again
I wanna be happy again
I wanna be happy again
