July For Kings, Signals

I see through the walls it's only the figures speaking in tongues and keeping me here now behind the sky
I was buried in white peeled me away as close to heaven as your town is far from here.
From my room to hers removing the language from my wounds to hers to bleed is to heal she says she is empty soon we'll refill she says "can you save me" I thought tonight I will Capture the wind before the world takes over again this brilliant light I've known this brilliant light she's shown (shone)

Now I'm reaching out before other signals blurring hers now I'm reaching for a sign other signals blurring mine

Savor every breath inside crimson wrapped in New Year's sky as moonlit ivory skin becomes a shield for the days as signals fade

Now I'm reaching out before
other signals blurring hers
now I'm reaching for a sign other signals bleeding mine

Now I'm reaching for the days when other signals fade away..

Signals fade
signals fade