VeggieTales, Viking Medley

"We're Vikings!"
We're Vikings, what do you know, the terrors of the sea
We're Vikings, where ever we go, pillaging happily
We're Vikings, let there be no ambuiguity
Cause who doesn't like a pile of loot?
Some gold, some jewels, and a shiny suit?
And a giant screen TV to boot?
A Viking's life for me!
Yo ho!
We're Vikings, what do you know, the terrors of the sea
We're Vikings, where ever they go, pillaging happily
We're Vikings, let there be no ambuiguity
Cause who doesn't like a pile of loot?
(this is my life as a Viking wife)
Some gold, some jewels, and a shiny suit?
(we have to admit that it's rife with strife)
And a giant screen TV to boot?
(but that's the lot we got, when married we)
The terrors of the sea!
(we married Vikings)
A Viking life for me!
"Look Olaf"
Look, Olaf! There's a fish, with a pretty little circle on the bottom of the backside of his fin!
Look, Olaf, there's another, and another, and another!
And the little one has got a funny grin!
Look, Olaf, Olaf, Olaf! Way down underneath the water, it's the biggest fish I think I've ever seen!
It's got blue and purple stripes, orange and yellow markings, and a dorsal fin that's iridescent green!
Look, Olaf! There's a turtle and he's wearing pink pajamas and he's got a cowboy hat upon his lid!
Look Olaf, very close, you'll see he's chasing down that herd of giant squid!
Look Olaf, Olaf, Olaf, Olaf!
Olaf, Olaf, Olaf, Olaf!
There's a hippo dancing with a bear
Look, Olaf, there's an ostrich
There's a mermaid
There's a bunny!
Please, Olaf, look anywhere but ---
Olaf: I don't see anything . . . what?
--- but there.
"Our Share"
Thank you, thank you, our new friends, you saved us from the sea
Rest assured that we intend to share proficiently
We used to care
About our share
Of gold, so rare
And big TV's
But when we share, we get out share of friends
Doo-doo-dee-doo-doo . . .
So what's the use?
A golden goose
Is no excuse
For being mean
When we share we get our share of friends