Heart, Strong, Strong Wind

We were too hateful
There were too many storms
We could not get through
But I still kept loving you

Fate brought you back to me
This time i won't let you leave
I'm holding on to you Forever
I'm never letting go

The time I spent away from you
Was time that made me see
I need to live my life with you
I need you here with me

And It would take a strong, strong wind
To take me from your arms again
To take me from your side
And It would take a strong, strong wind
To pull away this heart of mine
Make us break apart this time
And It would take a strong, strong wind

Hearts sometimes lose their way
But they find their way back someday
To the arms they need
And I need you like the air I breathe

The time I spent away from you
Was time lost in the rain
I meant to live my life with you
That's something nothing can change

And It would take a strong, strong wind
To take me from your arms again
To take me from your side
And It would take a strong, strong wind
To pull away this heart of mine
Make us break apart this time
And It would take a strong, strong wind

This time I'm holding on with everything
This time I won't let go for anything

And It would take a strong, strong wind
To take me from your arms again
To take me from your side
And It would take a strong, strong wind
To pull away this heart of mine
Make us break apart this time
And It would take a strong, strong wind
