Thunderstone, Forth Into The Black

He's always walking in the shadows of your minds
He's never talking...
Silence betrays, a smile on his face

Never there, never here, never feel any fear
But he's always everywhere
Never give, never take, never lave nor forsake
Sometimes our life ain't so fair

Close your eyes, he's near yet too far
Be strong and be what you really are

Forth into the black
You can hear him calling your name
Forth into the black
You can feel it, like thunder and rain

Embrace your life, take care of your soul
This time you'll be alone
He's waiting your turn, expecting you to never learn
This is the game we all are going to lose

Now hold on, this is your call don't let it go or you'll fall

And when the time has come, he'll be here for you
You better not run, 'cause you will never come back
You're going forth into the black
