36 Crazyfists, We Cannot Deny

What I would give for memories that wouldn't keep me up at night. We cannot deny.

It's a shame that all we have is a memory that cannot kill the fear.

And get out get out alive.

You won't find any comfort here.

When I begin.

And I may have friends, some of them the best that any man has ever known.

But they have troubles, they have troubles all their own.

In the wake of all the terror and the hell, I am constantly reminded all the crosses that I bear.

And if you never knew then keep it buried.
