Tinman Jones, Say Goodbye

Standing all alone wandering so far from home
Still too far to hear the voice that's calling
Something in a song, Something from a microphone
Something in the way you were so honest

Even though blinded
In faded belief
We're reminded
Of twilight's release

Say Goodbye to the night
The Stars no longer rule the sky
(Repeat)
Heard it all before
You are just a messenger
Everything you're telling me and more
Something in your head, Something in the thing you said
Something in the way you told the truth

Do you remember when believed

Come on over
I know you flinch when I say someone loves you
Enough to die for you

The sun is up come on over.
