Shut Your Mouth And Open Your Eyes

Salt For Your Wounds

There's a tear in my heart where the blood ran out.

There's a tear in my heart where the love ran out.

I thought we worked, pushed toward the same ends,

I'll never be so quick to trust again.

Disenchanted, disgusted, i regret that i trusted.

I put my faith.

My faith in you, you poisoned me through and through.

I though we both shared the same injuries.

Now i've found it's you who injures me.

My heart is cracked from being left out in the cold.

I know you'll pay for what you've taken - tenfold.

Disenchanted, disgusted, i regret that i trusted.

I put my faith.

My faith in them, they twisted the knife further in.
