

A-ha, Cosy Prisons

Take a moment if you dare
Catch yourself a breath of air
There's another life out there and you should try it

Dead ends high on every street
Look before you place your feet
Cracks and fissures keep the beat and you're inside it

Every thought you never dared to think
Every mood you always knew would sink
Every line you spoke out loud in a jest
All the time you took to be your best
Soon forgotten

The sun must never touch your skin
It could expose the dark within You're paranoid about the paranoia

And panic hits without a sign
You worry about it all the time
Every perfect moment is a hidden warning

Cos everything makes your pretty head spin Nagging thoughts are starting to sink in
With everything this way it's better to forget
Than end up in a place with something to regret

Your transatlantic shopping spree
Your health forever guarantees Organic bio
life's a breeze in cozy prison

Hiding out in a salad bar Isn't going to get you far and bottled wine is vinegar tomorrow

Everything around it makes your pretty head spin
Its piling up high and you're back where you begin Moments you try so hard to forget promising to have been the best one's yet

Everytime you shut your eyes it begins Everytime you trace your steps back in None of your convictions have the same old ring
No doubt you found a place for everything
Cozy prisons

So if you're careful
You won't get hurt
But if your careful all the time
Then whats it worth?
