

A Life Once Lost, The Change Came Suddenly

can i spread frustration without speaking?
without parting my lips except to breath?
i let my actions speak for me because my words collided with yours
it created tension and frustration so i left i didnt turn around to see how troubled you were that night i promise that it paled in comparison to the anguish each step brought me as i walked away my heart pumps your rhapsody i still lick my lips to the thought of you so now im stuck here in the purgatory of longing for that one kiss good-bye i try to empty myself of all desire that i crave for ou but the attempt only brings me to my knees
i succumb to you idol this subconscious social vampire who haunts everythought i chock on the will to demand patence only to find myself swallowing blood