

Abandoned Pools, Suburban Muse

la la la la
la la la la

Blue sky, holding us down Theres no white, only the sound of Happy cheety lambs
Cue the candle pause
Side walk, fall through the cracks to china
Never get back
I'm nothing in these boots laceless velcrow shoes

There used to be a reason why
We wrote the words across the sky
You and I will never die without a fight
My suburban muse

la la la la
la la la la

Green grass, towering high
This wide house
Any will die
A thousand tiny lies
Take the place of you

I sing in tune
And all the things you do
It lives inside of you
A parasite or two

There used to be a reason why
We wrote the words across the sky
You and I will never die without a fight
My suburban muse

I'm the king of ordinary things
It's killing me from inside out I'll give it away

la la la la
la la la la

There used to be the reason why
We wrote the words across the sky
You and I will never die without a fight
My suburban muse

Theres rain and cars and dusty streets
The culdesac is where we meet
I crush the leaves beneath my feet
And curse this town
My suburban muse

la la la la
la la la la

(Talking:)
Her senior year she joined jounior statesman club
And worked hard as a member of the ramettes.
Each of these girls was deserving
Of the honor of Prom Queen.