

Accidental Superhero, Brainiac

i saw the light as it shone you grabbed my soul as it moaned we were standing alone

we left well enough alone but it turned around and followed us home there was nothing easy to say

i need a change
i want something new
take me the same way
i took you

i saw the light as it shone
you grabbed my soul as it moaned
it was never something i wanted to throw away then the wheeze from the serpent drivers grabbed a hold through the different guises drying out, weeping eyes of sanity

i need a change
i want something new
take me the same way
i took you

i need a change
i want something new
take me the same way
i took you

i would've got away with it if it wasn't for you meddling kids