

Acumen Nation, Knowing This... here am i, fighting for the gold in me save myself from getting sick and all from knowing on all fours, collecting scars punishing myself for giving a shit about all of it not knowing the force that guides can also crush how can you steal so selfishly the innocence knowing this brother how can you pretend to care so selfishly for me with all your shit

betray's a great decay in everything that's sacred now knowing this, how can you steal so selfishly the innocence that's already been taken from me i beat them at their own game, still i'm the one who screams awake at night from suddenly now knowing the truth about the inner glow and how it's sucked by leeches, snakes, and everything that's underneath me growing like strife that's bred to wreck this core knowing this

how can you steal so selfishly the innocence
knowing this brother how can you
pretend to care so selfishly for me
with all your shit
betray's a great decay in everything that's sacred now
knowing this, how can you
steal so selfishly the innocence
that's already been taken from me already been taken from me
already been taken from me
already been taken from me
taken from me

knowing this
how can you pretend to care so selfishly for me when all my dreams are gone
knowing this
how can you pretend to care so selfishly for me
when all my dreams are gone
knowing this
how can you pretend to care so selfishly for me
when all my dreams are gone
knowing this
how can you pretend to care so selfishly for me
when all my dreams are gone
knowing this, how can you