

Adam Merrin, Still alright

When everything you have goes away
You realize that nothing means a thing
Everything you thought was a big deal
Now you see it all and what is real
When all you have just falls apart
And nothing seems to work out right
And you're trying
And you're still alright
Yeah, you're still alright x3
When everything starts to feel the same
And everyone around you seems to change
You went along with me when things weren't right
And when the morning slowly fades to night
When all you have just falls apart
And nothing seems to work out right
And you're trying
Ang you're still alright
Yeah, you're still alright x3