

After The Tragedy, A Castaway

Counter this weight, my back will break but I'll sail away from you; I am searching for the truth dark clouds disperse, my will is first moving further from your arms feeling distant and disarmed follow the sun into the sky like a dream that never dies I know why I was denied

[Chorus:]

It's hard to breathe I'm lost at sea
The storm is closing in on me I broke away, I swam for days a castaway, yeah I'm giving up, I give to you everything that I've pursued you lift me up, your Word is love a song is not enough Turn towards the sky just one more time did I have my will in life? Did I justify my flight?
Like worms in spring, I'll surface to breathe catching glimpses of the sky but the sun will melt my eyes follow your love into your arms leaving arrogance behind, I will give it all this time.

[Chorus]

We'll sing to you, over, and over again

[Chorus]
