

Against Me!, Cliche Guevara

One, Two, Three, Four!

And we'll keep ourselves in a place where it's easy to hold onto.
The last threats came and went,
this is the way the wars are played.
Always heading for a front,
heading for a front,
heading we go into the obscurity
of an easy to pass on feeling, objection is so clich.

So can your pop sensibilities sing me the end of the world?
Turn gunshots and mortar blasts into a metaphor of how we are all the same.
Well there's a lot of things that should be said, said,
so we're hammering six strings,
machine guns in audible voices,
this is the party we came for.

A new way on (x4)

We stand in amazement of motion in a world that is constantly revolving.
With plans of invasion and arms races racing yeah we rock, we rock, we rock, we rock!
to the new sensation
