

Agata Karczewska, Fool

Well, I'm busting my empathy
To be with the one that loves me truly
What a fool I've been before
Your love made me beg for more

Last night she told me that there was someone else
No need for panic I just fainted where I stand
And every word felt like bullet through my chest
I can't believe you speak to me like that

And every song is like a soundtrack of my life
We get your passion but it's just not good enough
They called me later but I didn't get the job
It's priceless to be useless all the time

Well, I'm busting my empathy
To be with the one that loves me truly
What a fool I've been before
Your love made me beg for more

Don't get me wrong I am not the only one
Looking for Thriller but found Invincible
Oh what a perfect disaster would be
To want someone who's choosing to stay free

She won't approve it, yes, she's gonna fight it back
My lawyer tells me that he doesn't give a fuck
How come I'm always so tired when I am drunk?
Excuse me I'm not good at having fun

Well, I'm busting my empathy
To be with the one that loves me truly
What a fool I've been before
Your love made me beg for more

I may be stubborn, well I am
But that's so flattering to you
My favorite part is giving up
'Cause I've never felt so insecure

Well, I'm busting my empathy
To be with the one that loves me truly
What a fool I've been before
Your love made me beg for more
