

Aiden, Breathless

We passed though like a nightmare falling down, without touching the ground.
This ghost and vacant eyes deceive thee, they've come to take me without words and silence.
With a hand now crushing hope this late kiss, you've come to make this my last night home.

I promised everything. The necklace and those things you made will go with me everywhere I go.
Well, it's not the end. I won't pretend it's impossible to fix what can't be broke.
I'm breathless and disconnected.

Take me home, so far away from here.
Take me slow, I can't stand one more year.
Take my breath away, wake me up today.
I will return for you.

Now I've seen the world through eyes of bitter hate and lies and now I can't stand what I have become.
Was there something I missed? Can you replay this kiss? And the ghost sought by my side,
I'm breathless and disconnected.

Take me home, so far away from here.
Take me slow, I can't stand one more year.
Take my breath away, wake me up today.
I will return for you.

Take me home, so far away from here.
Take me slow, I can't stand one more year.
Take my breath away, wake me up today.
I will return for you.

I won't forget those times we spent,
cutting our silhouette, waking up nights again.
I am afraid because I'm open and undone.

I won't (I won't) forget (forget) those things you said,
a stab to the heart and head, killing without and end.
I am afraid because I'm open and undone.

Take me home, so far away from here.
Take me slow, I can't stand one more year.
Take my breath away, wake me up today.
I will return for you.

Take me home, so far away from here.
Take me slow, I can't stand one more year.
Take my breath away, wake me up today.
I will return for you.

We passed though like a nightmare falling down, without touching the ground.
This ghost and vacant eyes deceive thee, they've come to take me without words and silence.