

Al Jarreau, More Love

More love

I should have listened more and listened well

I should have been your shelter in the rain

I should have touched you more and held you closer

Til I felt it melt your quiet pain

Should I have had more time to spare for you should have been there for you, to care for you with more love, more love

I could have given you the gifts I threw to total strangers passing through my nights

I could have cuddled near your gentle flame been warmer there than in these glaring lights should have had more time to spare for you

with more love, more love, more love what would it have taken if only could have taken my eyes off me for a while

Id have seen the hurtin hidin just behind the curtain of your smile oh, I swear I didnt know, which goes to show

How long it takes a man to be a man but if I say enough and try enough

and pray enough

and cry enough

I can still can have more time to spare for you always be there for you, to care for you

with more love, more love, more love
