Alan Jackson, Anywhere On Earth You Are

I've been riding these blue highways Another night has made me stop My weary bones can go no farther And here's where they'll drop

In my dreams your arms will find me They will hold me through the night Then release me to my journey As another day grows light

I've got so many miles to go And promises to keep Right now all I wanna do Is be anywhere on earth you are

I've always been a gypsy And the road calls me to roam But each day brings me closer To the place where we call home

Still got many miles to go And promises to keep Right now all I wanna do Is be anywhere on earth you are

In my dreams your arms will find me They will hold me through the night Right now all I wanna do Is be anywhere on earth you are
