Alanis Morissette, Movement Vi: Innocence

By moon we gather For the ascension Great sky shelter us With your endless compassion Last survivor It is you who must pass Into the light of the new world Under a sky of innocence We are now all dying In a slow black rain Was it a failure Of man and angels? Was it a failure of love? From this human river Too cruel for winter Welcome to the gates A rehearsal for the silence Pray we do not enter Under a sky of innocence We bathe in the seduction Beautiful The light is unraveling now We open our arms to it It is close to ground zero I am no one Yet I am everyone We are nothing, but we are all When I am still, I am inspired We are not yet born Half sadness But half choice When I am still I can hear You speak most clearly Father can you help me For the ocean is big And my boat is small Find the courage
