

Alarm, The, God Save Somebody

Alarm, The

Raw

God Save Somebody

People are saying money's falling off the trees

But i don't see nobody here with a piece

Nobody got it, everybody want it

Even people out there begging on the streets

From red square right down to the sea

Step down off the side-walk and you might see

Something going on make a poor heart bleed

Sounds like a new age world stampede

God save somebody

God save somebody

Well all through the land

Everybody lend a hand

God save somebody

Broke walls, people digging through

Skidding on the tarmac, tripping on the view

Halfway useful

Wholeway hopeful

Soaking their hearts in a vision of food

Welcome west to the world excess

Bet you halfway through some will settle for less

With a big break sleeping rough at night

On a stone floor like freezed ice

God save somebody

God save somebody

Well all through the land

Everybody lend a hand

God save somebody

Well whole place looks like a war's going on

Flash floods and fire bombs

A whole bunch of folk who say it ain't so

But they're from a place nobody goes

Shell shock and big decay

No policies made gonna take that away

Bells ringing out right now for the day

They're even trying to tear down god
