

Alesana, Congratulations, i hate you

No one ever said that life was fair and im not saying that it should be
So knowing that you are where you want to be and im not comes as no surprise
But dont expect me to be happy for you
And dont smile at me and tell me things will work out for me too
I dont want your pityi hate your pity
Taste your vanity
Its sweet bitterness as you hide behind your veil of my stolen hopes and lost dreams
You took them all
I watched you steal my thoughts and had to see you smile
As you build your dreams on my shattered hopes
Ill look back on a day once loved and fantasize for tragedy
Beg me to make this easier and listen to my hopeless cries
Suffer alone in emptiness
I lust to see you swallowed by the mess that you left in your wake
Disgust lies deep within your empty gaze
Beg me to make this easier and listen as my hopeless cries
Send stares into your meaningless eyes
My envy cant describe how i loathe you for having all the stars
Leaving my eyes to marvel the sky knowing it should be mine
Yet its you i see wasting the dream that only i deserve
Ill tear off your face to see your smile
As you build your dreams on my shattered hopes
Ill look back on a day once loved and fantasize for tragedy