Now, I cannot advance, passing through time
Oh sunrise nation, give birth to people
They won't know the distant memories
The voice of our ancestors echos

Once I was straddled on a black horse and circled around the hills and fields of the gods
This world is a capital of prosperity
You are once again an attacking soldier

What I am protecting is the small castle
Again even today, If I get exhausted and fall asleep
The pitch black night quietly covers you while you shine

Without knowing the people spill their tears
Before long they turn into elegant rivers
It will not turn into the coming day's food

Now I cannot advance, embracing my fate
Oh place of the sunrise, awaken your people
Keep them from going their way, they have enemies
Lightning tears up the rift between the clouds

In your body,
what is flowing is Yamato blood Ah, for thousands and thousands of years, even forever more

But the common songs of love tell of hollow justice
And to the hidden scabbard of your heart the glitter of the drawn risks losing it

I should be able to protect you
When you break and cross over the path without path
A gust of wind will push against your back
You cannot entrust the strength of the wind with your body

The flowers and fallen distant friends make the eternal cherry blossoms bloom
To the extent of throwing away yourself for the sake of the future

Now flap your wings, oh young hawk
Your wings still have yet to dye the blue sky
The other side has disappeared to the place of the stars
Unless it reaches the heavens it's running after

In your heart,
What is dwelling there is the Yamato dreams
Only you should live with indomitableness

Everyone doesn't mind the children of the gods although they mind the precious children of people

Now, I cannot advance, passing through time
Oh sunrise nation, give birth to people
They won't know the falling memories
The voice of the divine wind echos

Now flap your wings, oh young hawk
Your wings still have yet to dye the blue sky
The other side has disappeared to the place of the stars
Unless it reaches the heavens it's running after

In your body,
What is returning is the Yamato blood
For thousands and thousands of years, forever more in you
