What this heart holds onto is justice...

My sun burns red and hot
Somewhere in this world, truth is frozen and sleeping
Suddenly I discover this hand in love and sadness
How long have I been touching it?
In order for me to be me, I must melt the darkness

Not yet seeing to the world
When I dive into the opening

If my wings are hurting
My heart is changing into steel

Intersect the light
The shadow is falling to the previous future
Can it shine?

The corner of the universe has no end for just one of the lonely stars

We live and become connected
Like the earth crosses over and becomes a line

Sinking and secretly floating to the moon in the blue sky
Let's obscure the scorn as the drops of our dreams are spilling
Holding out this hand and receiving the warmth
The smile needs to be there so you can be yourself
Let's accompany each other's lives

Living inside my soul
The demon opens one eye
I see the intensifying time
What is evil? What is good?

In order for me to protect someone
I must hold anger, Tears must flow
They must mix in you

The everlasting things are hope and greed
By themselves in this momentary trap
We are wandering and fighting against each other
Is that turning into the correct history?

My land towers so far and shakes so close
The firm land is crumbling as I send everything everything to the top of the ground
Wrapping these arms in memories of gentleness
How many more times must I wake up?
In order for people to be people, must this path continue?

What this heart is holding is a sword

My sun burns red and hot
Somewhere in this world, truth is frozen and sleeping
Suddenly discovering this hand in love and regret and I will touch it for so long
I want to be myself

Sinking and secretly floating to the moon in the blue sky
Let's obscure the scorn as the drops of our dreams are spilling
Holding out this hand and receiving the warmth
The smile needs to be there so you can be yourself
Let's accompany each other's lives

And now
I am protecting my victory
