To the extent of many, it blooms more beautifully than any other flower Being able to love you with the blood of my heart is probably falling sweetly

Until the darkness of your closed eyes is completely dyed crimson This world will turn hazy with think ink and cover it

Please
Bury me
on this spring day

To the extent of being so pure,
I am without the harsh smile
I know the gentle you from that time and our love is falling fragrantly ill

Please,
The first time we met by chance
Like a picture of time Just like it's beautifully imprisoned and I will remember in the night

Please bury me
Beneath the fullness of the cherry blossoms

As we are about to be parted
I call back the ghosts of our playtime as the quiet bones break in my arms

If I am able to go back to the time where I embraced you From this, living through everything Let's throw away these days

Until the darkness of your covered eyes
is completely dyed crimson
I am becoming hazy with think ink Let's purify this world

Please bury me
With your hands
On this spring day
