Alice Cooper, I Am The Spider

Alice Cooper
Along Came A Spider
I Am The Spider
I'm your lover
I'm your brother
I'm your killer
I'm your friend
I'm your teacher
I'm your preacher
I'm the reaper in the end

I'm your healer
I'm your dealer
I'm your angel, lets pretend
I'm your jailer
I'm your failure
I'm the reaper in the end

Along came a Spider Crept up beside her Spun his web deep inside her My darkness will guide her

I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider

You're my sinner You're my dinner My little puppet, let's pretend You're the cure to my affliction My addiction to the end

Along came a Spider Crept up beside her Spun his web deep inside her My darkness will guide her

I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider

I was born to it (?)
Not something to strive for
Not something to even admire
Unless it was
It's done with the greatest of taste
Conviction and expertise
I am the spider

Along came a Spider Crept up beside her Spun his web deep inside her My darkness will guide her

I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider I am the spider

Epilogue: Spider:

" Well, they found my diary today. They were appropriately appalled At the discovery of the eight victims They're now putting it all together. Women wrapped in silk With one leg missing Eight legs, one body, silk, Spider, brilliant!" "We've been in this cell For 28 years Steven We couldn't have done all Those horrible things Yes, I know I know what you always say You trap, you kill, you eat That's what a good spider does You trap, you kill, you Eat. You trap, you kill, you eat."
