

Alkaline Trio, Another Innocent Girl

He likes to act like he's all grown up
He wanted to grow up to be an actor
But he never told anybody
He likes to spill all of his guts
On the top of a well stocked bar
And then swallow them bit by bit remembering every scar
Is a valid reason for every drink
And a new tattoo is a new reason to think

He likes to pretend that he's all sewn up
It makes for a much stronger case
But there's blood underneath that skin
That scar's not so easy to erase
He walks with a glass cane now
He's careful when holding his body up straight
Can't go outside anymore when it's raining
Can't smash up that beautiful face

Another innocent girl just made his list
That self pity shit is just too hard too resist
Yeah, when we get home you'll see
That this part of him is now part of me

He likes to act like he's all grown up
He wanted to grow up to be an actor
But he never told anybody
He likes to spill all of his guts
On the top of a well stocked bar
And then swallow them bit by bit remembering every scar
Is a valid reason for stronger drinks
And a new tattoo is a new reason to think

Yeah, when we get home you'll see
That this part of him is now part of me
Yeah, when we get home you'll see
That this part of him is controlling me

Yeah, it's way too easy to fake this smile lead you on
Maybe I'm wrong but everyone gets bored once in awhile