Alkaline Trio, Lost & Rendered

Found out the hard way that you were lost
And rendered all alone in the dark forest of your thoughts
Forever following a trail of fear that seems to lead
To more dead ends and mysteries, I'm losing hope of ever solving
Can anybody hear me? Is anyone out there?
I've fallen and I'm broken down, I'm dying over here
If anybody's listening I hope you hear my cries
My will to live is wearing thin, I'm running out of time
Sounding the alarms inside of me
Hoping like hell the sound cuts through the water and the broken trees
And reaches you before the creatures of the night
Descend on me, no help in sight, won't be long before we lose daylight
Can anybody hear me? Is anyone out there?
I've fallen and I'm broken down, I'm dying over here
If anybody's listening I hope you hear my cries
My will to live is wearing thin, I'm running out of time
Take a deep breath, could be the cure
It could be your last, can't know for sure
Is it the hate they tried to show?
Is it the love that you'll never know?
I guess we'll never know
Can anybody hear me? Is anyone out there?
I've fallen and I'm broken down, I'm dying over here
If anybody's listening I hope you hear my cries
My will to live is wearing thin, I'm running out of time
Can anybody hear me?
Can anybody hear me?
Can anybody hear me?
Can anybody hear me?