

Alliswell, My Bluebird

You were driving me home
Just as the sun was coming up
As early morning commuters clung
To their coffee cups.
When you laughed, I felt like royalty
So that morning I went home,
And I slept like a king
Do you know what I dreamed?
I dreamed that you would never hurt again.
I know one day they'll find a cure,
I pray they find it soon,
Cause I cannot afford
To say goodbye to you
Please stay, if only til the morning, please just stay...
