

Aloud, The Last Time

You say goodbye, my baby
With a heavy heart I'll let you go
Some things you never count on
Other things are better left unknown
The end will be like the beginning for us
I promise
Hold me close
Tonight may be the last time
Your eyes meet mine
Will be the last time

Greedy men and human nature
Walk the streets and cruise our grocery stores
In the name of pride and justice
They would dare to strip away both
You say goodbye my baby
My heavy heart it grows and grows
Those devils who'd erase you
They don't know the lengths to which I'd go
