Amanda Stott, Homeless Heart

Lonesome stranger With a crowd around you

I see who you are

You joke, they laugh

Til the show is over

Then you fall so hard

If you're needing

A soul-to-soul connection

I'll run to your side

When you're lost in the dark

When you're out in the cold

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heart

Open close me

Leave your secrets with me

I can ease your pain

And my arms will be

Just like walls around you

Come in from the rain

If you're running

In the wrong direction

I will lead you back

When you're lost in the dark

When you're out in the cold

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heart

Broken

Shattered like a mirror

In a million pieces

Sooner or later

You've got to find

Something someone

To find you and save you

When you're lost in the dark

When you're out in the cold

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heart

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heart

I'll be a home to your homeless heart
