

Amanda Stott, Maybe Tomorrow

You're my beautiful friend with so much to give
But you hide it all away and don't really live
Think you gotta be perfect, get it right first time
But how can you be perfect if you never even try?
Don't turn out the light on another day,
As a part of you dies every time you say,
Maybe tomorrow, but tomorrow never comes
Before you know, it's yesterday, and yesterday is gone
No time to borrow, you only have today
So take my hand, don't let me hear you say
Maybe tomorrow
So nobody's born knowing it all,
Everybody stumbles, everybody falls
You're no different from anybody else,
You're gonna face your fears, just believe in yourself
Before you kiss another chance goodbye,
Come on little bird, take to the sky,
Maybe tomorrow, but tomorrow never comes
Before you know, it's yesterday, and yesterday is gone
No time to borrow, you only have today
So take my hand, don't let me hear you say
Maybe tomorrow you'll turn around,
Maybe tomorrow you'll say you'll live right now
So live right now, my beautiful friend,
I don't wanna hear those words again
Maybe tomorrow, 'cause tomorrow never comes
Don't let me hear you say, maybe tomorrow
'Cause you got a lot to give,
Don't hide it all away, it's time to live
