

America, Nothing's So Far Away (as Yesterday)

America

Miscellaneous

Nothing's So Far Away (as Yesterday)

Written by dewey bunnell, bill mummy, and robert haim, ©1991

Found on encore: more greatest hits and highway.

Another evening, the rain falling down
It's been a long time, since you've come around
A little laughter, and we had it all
It's so misleading, the things you recall

Turning the pages
We open the cages
Now i know that
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away

Take a look at the person inside
You realize there is nothing to hide
I remember the things that we said
So very simple the lives that we led

Turning the pages
We open the cages
Now i know that
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away

I recall how it used to be
And i can feel it, feel it surrounding me

Turning the pages
We open the cages
Now i know that
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away

I recall how it used to be
And i can feel it, feel it surrounding me

Oh, nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh
Nothing's so far away as yesterday, wo, oh