

American Pearl, Underground

older brother can ya hear me wish you could see me feeling good right now tell my mother I can see her that I've been dreamin' and I can show you how seems twenty years that we've been reelin' but you lost that feelin' and me I lost the fear somehow hey father where's the boy you bleded hung dry and cheated it's me and I took the fall for you down the road they call yesterday I found my moment in the sun let's hope the sun will be as kind today for only this much I pray that someday from the underground with all our friends around to bring ya down who'll be there to save me?
they could shake you down but you won't give in to the underground older brother can ya see me wish you could be me walkin' in these shoes to feel the weight of my conviction mental addiction has got me down and losin' sleep so if I try to make it real older brother would ya hear me?
and if I try again to feel older brother could ya heal me?
older brother can ya hear me, wish you could see me feelin' good right now
