

Amie Comeaux, Written In The Stars

She was sixteen and he was twenty
She'd never strayed from that small town
He rode the rodeo
Her daddy said you know
That kind don't ever settle down

She took a job down at the diner
He started stoppin' by sometimes
She'd laugh when he would say
I'm gonna marry you someday
Little did that young girl realize

Some things are meant to happen
Some things are bound to be
Love has a way of making doubting hearts believe
Sometimes in spite of difference
Sometimes against all odds
Some things are meant to happen
It's written in the stars

He chased his dreams out on the circuit
She went on with her small town life
But when that cowboy came back home

He wouldn't leave her heart alone
Till she fell into his arms one starry night

Some things are meant to happen
Some things are bound to be
Love has a way of making doubting hearts believe
Sometimes in spite of difference
Sometimes against all odds
Some things are meant to happen
It's written in the stars

They bought a house in town
And had a baby boy named Joe
Bought him a rocking horse
So he could ride the rodeo

Some things are meant to happen
Some things are bound to be
Love has a way of making doubting hearts believe
Sometimes in spite of difference
Sometimes against all odds
Some things are meant to happen
It's written in the stars
