

Amila Zazu, You'll be alright

there is a song I'll always sing
it consoles my heart sounds like the melody of soul I wanna sing every word to you wanna break your walls feel the scent of love rising in the air
won't you open your door? you have strength now to discover
you mean more than anyone I will send you all my angels
no need to cry, not anymore not anymore forget the pain
get rid of hurt leave it all behind wake up the sun you have inside now it's high time for it to show it can shine in you you are great enough to get everywhere
so just open your door
you have strength now to discover
you mean more than anyone
I will send you all my angels
no need to cry, not anymore

REFREN:

you have got the power to live even if it's hard to believe
you will be alright
you will be alright
that's the time you've been waiting for even if you're broken inside you are strong enough to survive
you will be alright
you won't be scared no more there is a place deep in my heart it will never break down where I'll forever feel at home I'll take you there whenever you need if you ask me to don't stay on your own
you are not alone
so just open your door
I will help you to discover
you mean more than anyone
I will send you all my angels
no need to cry, not anymore

REFREN:

you have got the power to live
even if it's hard to believe
you will be alright
you will be alright
that's the time you've been waiting for
even if you're broken inside
you are strong enough to survive there are things that will never stop don't you feel like giving them up you've got to know when the night is gone there's a break of dawn

