

Amity Dry, The Lighthouse

The worst thing is the silence
Ringing in my ears
And waking up from a dream
To remember you're not here
And some days I'm so lonely
I can barely even breathe
But then something will remind me
That you're still right here with me

And you're the lighthouse
Leading me home
Guiding me through
Ev'ry storm
And you're the sun
That shines on my face
The warming embrace
The light of my days
You're the lighthouse

I long to hear your laughter
To look into your eyes
And I miss the way we used to talk
Until the sun would rise
And some days I'm so angry
You were taken far too soon
But I know you're right beside me
And you're carrying me through

And you're the lighthouse
Leading me home
Guiding me through
Ev'ry storm
And you're the sun
That shines on my face
The warming embrace
The light of my days

And I swear that I can feel you
Your breath upon my skin
And whenever I need you
I can hear you whispering

Whenever I need you
I can hear you whispering

And you're the lighthouse
Leading me home
Guiding me through
Ev'ry storm
And, yeah, you're the sun
That shines on my face
The warming embrace
The light of my days

You're the lighthouse

And you're leading me home...
