

Amorphis, God Of Deception

The god of deception a man with your face see him still wondering searching for your grave needles called luster it's only a one night stand and you are six feet under dead by your own hand

as you lost your destination something drilled holes in your soul it's time to meet your maker raise the relief on your temple

as you lost your destination
something drilled holes in your soul
it's time to meet your maker
raise the relief on your temple

make them blame themselves regret the deceased
until the truth kills it's novelty attrition of their beliefs

as you lost your destination
something drilled holes in your soul
it's time to meet your maker
raise the relief on your temple

it's the pain that calls the tune those heartbreaking moments mislaid it all
all the happiness you can die at your leisure
make them blame themselves
regret the deceased
until the truth kills its novelty
attrition of their beliefs