

Ana Johnsson, Fate

You change the sound of my name
A moment of truth that I saw in your face
It hurts inside, a moment this vile
That you brought alive
All the roads lead back to you

Give me something to return to
In your heart
I fear nothing but to leave here
Without you for life
We were left in this world for each other
But I can't run from the fate
I've been fighting for so long

You made me who I am
Until the dawn of time
I have walked alone
You tie up a storm
When all hope was lost
But time revolves
I have to let go
One never meant to be

Give me something to return to
In your heart
I fear nothing but to leave here
Without you for life
We were left in this world for each other
But I can't run from the fate
I've been fighting for so long