Anathema, Unchained (Tales Of The Unexpected

Unbroken unchained relentless to regain What we have lost A grip on reality screaming deep down within me as I count the cost

Holding on in spite of the doubt Always trying to find it out That we could find a way back there Beyond the moon right through the air Always remembering...

Holding on in spite of the doubt Always trying to find it out That we could find a way back there Beyond the moon right through the air Always remembering... Always remembering... Always remembering...
