

Andreas Johnson, Sunshine

We look a trip, on a train somewhere in between the mountain and the valley she said, come to me I sing for you a song, remember me before I'm gone I will set you free I will set you free child
So she came, a dream
The sweetest evening breeze, all the flowers in the garden, she brought'em home to me I build for you a home, a place to roam you know that I will, I will pray for Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow you know that I will pray for Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow
you know that I would die for, sunshine In a room above the crowded city street a world apart
we made love complete, I dance for you my friend and in the end you know that I will,
I will dance again
Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow
you know that now I will pray for Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow you know that I would die for, Sun, oh that glowing flower Sun, in the darkest hour Sunshine, float right to yr mind Sun, oh the child of freedom Sun, now we all would need some Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow
you know that now I will pray for
Sunshine, Sunshine here tomorrow
you know that now I will pray for That sunshine, that sunshine
