

Anjali, Rainy Day

On this rainy day
Feel the moon spill, drift to silver gray
Would like to feel the sun but it's too late
On this rainy day
For my heart still beats
In the crowded streets, its solemn beats
Echo solitude as distant peaks
Washes over me and steals the peace
It's like the sun was never mine
It took away the silver lines
On clouds that broad into the mind
And throw it all away
And the grains of time
Repossess me and all mankind
A fragile entity that breathes inside
On this rainy day

It's like the sun was never mine
It took away the silver lines
On clouds that broad into the mind
And throw it all away
It's like the sun could never see
This life that breathes so endlessly
A mellow daze that captures me
And throws it all away
(On this rainy day)
On this rainy day
(On this rainy day)
On this rainy day
(On this rainy day)
On this rainy day
(On this rainy)
